THE VALUE OF BASIC SERVICE AIRPORTS

Basic Service airports are important transportation facilities that keep small communities throughout Iowa connected to the nation's air transportation system. Services at these airports can include air medical providers, public safety activities, and aerial application, but can also serve general aviation activity and vary based on local needs and airport uses. Businesses operating at Basic Service airports throughout Iowa support over 50 on-airport jobs and support Iowa's economy through the movement of people and goods.
